

JAWN'S THOUGHTS
IN COLD GRAY DAWN

Philadelphia Boxer Felt Some Badly After His Bout With Ketchel.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Philadelphia Jack O'Brien opened his eyes in Quakertown on Thursday morning and slowly crawled from his downy couch. He had a feeling something like that described in the "Gull of Sulu."

It is no time for mirth and laughter. In the cold gray dawn of the morning after. But the causes were different. The Sultan had been introduced to an American cock-fighter, but Jawn O'Brien had met one Stanley Ketchel, of Montana, and the meeting had not been pleasant.

Jawn auntered slowly to his mirror, took one glance, and with a hand raised high, swore "never again."

The fact is, O'Brien felt very sore in more ways than one. His stomach felt as if it was reaching his spinal column, while the numerous bumps on his face, forehead and kidneys made him look as if he had had a three-round session with a threshing machine. Besides, he had been telling the reporters for many days past how he would fight Ketchel. He would slam Stanley on the jaw, or nose, and then do a dancing master's act. But John's calculations were awry. When the Montana whirlwind got started in John's direction there was no place for him to go unless he jumped out of the ring. John's face wore a surprised and pained look when he found that the tactics he employed to hold out the Montana boy for six rounds in their last fight in New York, which earned him a draw with the black champion a few weeks ago, and which has won him many fights with men bigger and heavier than himself, were of no avail against the Western cat-puncher. Ketchel has improved wonderfully since his arrival in the East. When he arrived here Ketchel was a sluggish pure and simple. He knew nothing about the fine points of boxing, but just waded in, willing to take whatever came his way, and ready to pay it back with interest.

New York sporting writers are, of course, speculating as to the outcome of the Johnson-Ketchel fight. There is only one thing to it. If Ketchel can get to Johnson's body it is all over with the black man. But we must remember that Johnson is a much larger man, has a phenomenally long reach, and is a fairly clever fighter. The negro was never known to take a body beating. You may pound a colored man on the head and chest all day and not hurt him, but let him receive a few blows such as fighters like Fitzsimmons, Ketchel and many lesser lights can deliver in the vicinity of the stomach, and the negro will quit. The three best negro fighters the world has ever produced—Watcott, Gans and Dixon—were beaten by body blows. Watson always fought in a crouch, but the first man that reached his body made him quit. Nelson beat Gans with body punches at Goldfield, and Terry McGovern tore the life out of Dixon at Lakewood with terrific wallops to the stomach. Let Ketchel land a few of his haymakers on Johnson's breadbasket and it will not be necessary for Jeffries to go into training.

Lewis to Take a Rest.
Willie Lewis, the New York welterweight, who returned to this country recently after a clean-up of the European capitals, has decided to take a good rest, and has gone to the Catskill Mountains. Lewis was eleven fights on the other side, seven of them being men who weighed 200 pounds or over, while at no time did Lewis weigh over 140. He also defeated William (Honey) McElroy, by whom he had twice been knocked out in America.

WOULD FIGHT LONGER.

Codroff Wants Johnson-Kaufman Bout to Go Forty-five Rounds.

The efforts of Jim Codroff to have the Johnson-Kaufman go changed from a twenty-round to a forty-five round affair seems to have met with little success so far. Johnson has been guaranteed a $10,000 purse for his share and sees no reason for changing to a longer distance for the same money. Although Codroff thinks that a forty-five round bout would bring a $10,000 home, he can't see a way clear to raise the purse to be given Johnson, and says he stands to lose money on the fight as originally planned. Pacific Coast fans like long fights, and seem to think they will not get their money's worth in a twenty-round mix-up. Besides, Johnson doesn't like a long distance. He contends, with some reason, that other fighters won their championship titles over the twenty-round route, and he sees no reason why he should be compelled to go further.

JOE MADDEN CAPTURES
RICH BROOKLYN DERBY

Hildreth's Colt Lands Big Purse for His Owner at Gravesend Track.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NEW YORK, June 19.—S. C. Hildreth's Joe Madden won the Rich Brooklyn Derby for three-year-olds at a mile and a half over the Gravesend track today by a short head. It was E. Dugan's perseverance that enabled the Yankee colt to gather nearly $9,000 for his popular owner.

There were only three starters. Joe Madden was the favorite, and conceding four pounds to John E. Madden's Fayette, also twelve to H. H. Whitney's County Fair.

When the barrier went up in the presence of 10,000 enthusiastic spectators, County Fair took County Fair to the front to set a slow pace, with the others under wraps close behind him. The first three-quarters of a mile showed they were traveling at a 1:18 clip. County Fair still in front and Fayette leading the great Hildreth colt by a head. When a mile had been completed, County Fair let County Fair down.

and he quickened his pace around the far turn, with Fayette at his heels. Joe Madden would be left behind, but reaching the head of the stretch, Dugan began to get busy, just as Fayette shot past Mr. Whitney's representative. A streak of lightning, Scoville drew his whip and put Fayette under a terrific drive, as he straightened out for him, and for several moments Hildreth looked worried as he watched the race from the grandstand. Then Joe Madden, with great stamina, gradually wore Fayette down and in a final dash made the crowd wild with excitement. The Hildreth colt landed the prize by the shortest of margins in 2:37 4-5 over a fast track. Fayette, who showed a big improvement over his previous races, was half a dozen lengths before County Fair.

Saturday.

Seventeen contestants faced the traps at Deep Run yesterday afternoon. Richmond won the honor of high gun by breaking eighty-eight out of 100. Brown was high gun in the club shoot, with forty-five out of fifty, with Rudy and Richmond close seconds, each scoring forty-four.

Next Saturday is prize day, and all members that have shot twice in the present month are entitled to compete for the $10 in gold offered by the club. Shooters that have shot less than $4 per cent. will be given a handicap. Richmond, Lohman and Brown tied for the Dupont trophy, each making a perfect score, with handicaps added. A prize will be decided in the first twenty-five targets in the regular shoot next Saturday.
